WILSON NOTE PRESENTED IN BERLIN

WASHINGTON BELIEVES GERMANY WILL NOT YIELD

U. S. OFFICIALS THINK KAISER WILL DEFEND HIS CAMPAIGN

By A. M. JAMIESON,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Germany will not yield to the demands of the United States, but will justify her submarine warfare and will assert her right to continue the plans she has laid out to destroy the shipping of England and all other nations now carrying munitions of war and other supplies to her enemies.

This is the prevailing opinion in Washington official circles today.

Then what? Germany herself must determine.

But it is not believed that President Wilson and his advisers will go further than to denounce Germany as an outlaw among nations; for war, actual fighting, is not regarded as a possibility, as Germany is the one belligerent that cannot at this time strike back at the United States. All her warships, except submarines, are behind fortifications, therefore she cannot send soldiers across the Atlantic.

MIGHT SEIZE GERMAN SHIPS INTERNED HERE.

On the other hand, it is not believed that the United States would send her forces to European waters, when there is nothing visible to fight.

The President, it is declared, will direct his efforts to the avoidance of war in any form, a warlike step to be taken only when it becomes necessary to protect this country's commerce on the seas.

If things came to the worst, it is said, the President would discontinue diplomatic relations with Germany, seize German vessels now interned in this country, and designate torpedo destroyers to convoy to European ports merchant vessels which are likely to be attacked by submarines.

"Germany can never meet the President's demands," said a prominent official today. "It is out of the question for her to do so without abandoning her submarine campaign almost entirely. She had staked her success in the war upon her ability to paralyze British commerce, and if she should agree to discard this feature of her war she would vitally impair her chances of victory."

It is not expected that Germany's reply will be long delayed. The opinion is expressed that President Wilson cannot recede a single step from the position he has taken without impairing American prestige. It is for this reason that war clouds are seen on the horizon today. Every expert observer on international affairs sees that Germany and the United States have reached a deadlock.

A high German authority expressed the opinion today that Germany will not grant the right of the United States to ask for a guarantee that there will be no further attacks by submarines on merchant ships carrying noncombatants.

CONCESSIONS HINTED.

Germany, it was said, probably would make every possible concession in giving noncombatants time and opportunity to get into the lifeboats before any merchantman, neutral or belligerent, is torpedoed.

A guarantee by Germany that attacks by submarines on merchant ships carrying noncombatants shall cease would, in the opinion of the German authority, admit of the right of interference between two belligerents.

The cabinet meeting today was devoted to an analysis of the public reception of the President's note to Germany. Most of the cabinet members made no secret of their elation over the general satisfaction and acclaim with which the note has been greeted. Many telegrams were read commending the note and promising the President support in whatever action he may take.

CABINET IS UNITED.

The cabinet practically has abandoned its consideration of routine and departmental problems to devote its time to the foreign situation. Differences said to have existed in the cabinet as to the treatment of the Lusitania question now have disappeared and the President is receiving full support of the cabinet.

The German Embassy today declined to affirm or deny the report that it had been notified by the German Foreign Office as to the attitude to be taken by Germany in response to President Wilson's note presented in Berlin today. It was suggested that the Embassy was unlikely to make any formal statement during the day.

British Embassy officials declined to discuss the subject.

SENATOR STONE'S VIEW.

At an early hour today when the text of the note to Germany was available, Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations was asked to discuss it. He said:

"The doctrine laid down by the President seems to me to be sound in principle. If the American people will do what they ought to do and what I believe they will do, they will uphold the President and earnestly support him in this important juncture."

Asked if he thought the note portended a special session of Congress, Senator Stone replied:

"I do not see any good reason why Congress should be convened. This seems to be a diplomatic question and the President is able to handle it. If he wants Congress here the President will not hesitate to summon it. But if he has any such thought I have not heard of it."

In the face of the German crisis the War Department displayed no unusual activity today. So far as it could be learned not a single order has been issued out of the usual routine and no special preparations are being made to strengthen the national defences at any particular points.

News of the Transylvania Is Now Anxiously Awaited

Up to 1 o'clock this afternoon there was no word from the Transylvania, which was threatened with the fate of the Lusitania, according to New York dispatches several days ago.

Though no direct word has come from the liner, it is announced that she must be nearing the war zone. From Queenstown came a cable today stating that Cunard men there expected the steamship would be torpedoed by a German submarine.

The Queenstown cable said the Transylvania was due there tomorrow. Word came from New York that the Anchor liner, which has been chartered by the Cunard Company, would probably arrive at Liverpool Sunday morning.

As the hours passed and no word came from the liner, the anxiety in shipping circles became apparent. There were numerous telephone calls of inquiry as to the steamship's fate.

Queenstown reported the belief of shipping men there to be that submarines were in waiting to attack the Transylvania.

On the Transylvania are 114 first cabin, 308 second and 452 third class passengers and officers and crew, numbering 281. It is announced that there are about 125 American passengers on the steamship.

Note Speaks for Us All, Asserts Governor Walsh

Unqualified praise and the sincere promise of support in any action were expressed by Governor Walsh today in discussing President Wilson's note. The Governor said:

The message sent by the American government to Germany is admirable. It indicates that the Government's position has been taken after sober and earnest deliberation. It could not have pointed out the national injury that has been inflicted in plainer language. Let us hope that the German government will recognize the justice of our position.

In any event, the Government has spoken for us all. It is our duty unanimously and unitedly to support the Government.

WILSON OBJECTS TO ALL ATTACKS ON TRADE SHIPS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—President Wilson's note to Germany protesting against the loss of American lives and violation of American rights on the sea as a result of Germany's submarine warfare was presented by Ambassador Gerard to the German foreign office at Berlin today. The note demands that Germany end her submarine warfare so far as American lives and property are concerned and contains this unmistakable threat of action should the demands go unheeded:

"The Imperial German Government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any act necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of safeguarding their free exercise and enjoyment."

MOST SERIOUS PHASE OF THE NOTE.

The phase of the note which is believed most likely to create a serious issue with the German government is that part in which the President states that the entire submarine campaign of Germany against its enemies' commerce ships is objectionable. President Wilson's note says:

The government of the United States, therefore, desires to call the attention of the Imperial German government with the utmost earnestness to the fact that the objection to its present method of attack against the trade of their enemies lies in the practical impossibility of employing submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding those rules of fairness, reason, justice and humanity which all modern opinion regards as imperative. It is practically impossible for the officers of a submarine to visit a merchantman at sea and examine her papers and cargo. It is practically impossible for them to make a prize of her, and, if they cannot put a prize crew on board of her, they cannot sink her without giving the crew and all on board of her to the mercy of the sea in her small boats. These facts, it is understood, the Imperial German government frankly admits.

We are informed that in the instances of which we have spoken time enough for even that poor measure of safety was not given, and in at least two of the cases cited not so much as a warning was received. MANIFESTLY SUBMARINES CANNOT BE USED AGAINST MERCHANTMEN, AS THE LAST FEW WEEKS HAVE SHOWN, WITHOUT AN INEVITABLE VIOLATION OF MANY SACRED PRINCIPLES OF JUSTICE AND HUMANITY.

LONDON NEWSPAPERS PRAISE TONE AND WORDING OF U. S. NOTE

By HERBERT TEMPLE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, May 14.—"One of the greatest issues of the war has been sharply defined in the American note to Germany, and the answer must make clear to the whole world whether Germany has definitely abjured legal sanction and limitations which hitherto were held unchallengeable between nations," says the Westminster Gazette today in discussing President Wilson's protest against Germany's submarine warfare and the killing of neutrals by Germans on the high seas.

"President Wilson is acting for the honor and safety of Americans. All who are biased in favor of the belligerents would do well to spare him advice and comment."

Weiner Doubts Acceptance of Note by Germany

Professor Leo Weiner of Harvard, head of the department of Slavic languages and literature, doubts Germany's acceptance in full of President Wilson's note. He said today:

I don't think Germany will accept the proposition tendered to it by this country in full. I cannot see how Germany can acceptany of its provisions unless all, in order to satisfy this country.

According to the note all England will have to do, in order to insure the safety of her vessels, is to place one American on board. Germany undoubtedly will cite this fact in replying to the note.

Wilson Journeys Without Escort

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Planning to review the North Atlantic fleet for the first time since assuming office President Wilson will leave Washington this evening on the Presidential yacht Mayflower for New York City. He will be accompanied by Secretary Joseph P. Tumulty, Dr. Cary T. Grayson and some of the women members of his household.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels today announced that the Mayflower will not be escorted to New York by any kind of naval craft. He said that no ships were available for the purpose. The President will be in constant communication with the shore by wireless and will reach New York Monday morning in time to meet the chief officers of the fleet and the members of the cabinet who will attend the review.

FULL TEXT OF PRESIDENT WILSON'S NOTE TO GERMANY

The President's note in full follows:

Department of State, Washington, May 13, 1915.

The Secretary of State to the American Ambassador at Berlin:

Please call on the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and after reading to him this communication, leave with him a copy.

In view of recent acts of the German authorities in violation of American rights on the high seas, which culminated in the torpedoing and sinking of the British steamship Lusitania on May 7, 1915, by which over 100 American citizens lost their lives, it is clearly wise and desirable that the government of the United States and the Imperial German government should come to a clear and full understanding as to the grave situation which has resulted.

The sinking of the British passenger steamer Falaba by a German submarine on March 28, through which Leon C. Thresher, an American citizen, was drowned; the attack on April 28, on the American vessel Cushing by a German aeroplane; the torpedoing on May 1, of the American vessel Gulflight by a German submarine, as a result of which two or more American citizens met their death; and, finally, the torpedoing and sinking of the steamship Lusitania, constitute a series of events which the government of the United States has observed with growing concern, distress and amazement.

Recalling the humane and enlightened attitude hitherto assumed by the Imperial German government in matters of international right, and particularly with regard to the freedom of the seas; having learned to recognize the German views and the German influence in the field of international obligation as always engaged upon the side of justice and humanity; and having understood the instructions of the Imperial German government to its naval commanders to be upon the same plane of humane action prescribed by the naval codes of other nations the government of the United States was loath to believe—it cannot now bring itself to believe—that these acts, so absolutely contrary to the rules, the practices and the spirit of modern warfare could have the countenance or sanction of that great government.

EXPECT ACTION TO "VINDICATE GERMANY."

It feels it to be its duty, therefore to address the Imperial German government concerning them with the utmost frankness and in the earnest hope that it is not mistaken in expecting action on the part of the Imperial German government which will correct the unfortunate impressions which have been created and vindicate once more the position of that government with regard to the sacred freedom of the seas.

The government of the United States has been apprised that the Imperial German government considered themselves to be obliged by the extraordinary circumstances of the present war and the measures adopted by their adversaries in seeking to cut Germany off from all commerce to adopt methods of retaliation which go much beyond the ordinary methods of warfare at sea in the proclamation of a war zone from which they have warned ships to keep away.

This government has already taken occasion to inform the Imperial German government that it cannot admit the adoption of such measures or such a warning of danger to operate as in any degree an abbreviation of the rights of American ship masters or of American citizens bound on lawful errands as passengers on merchant ships of belligerent nationality and that it must hold the Imperial German government to a strict accountability for any infringement of those rights intentional or incidental.

It does not understand the Imperial German government to question these rights. It assumes, on the contrary, that the Imperial government accepts as of course, the rule that the lives of non-combatants, whether they be of neutral citizenship or citizens of one of the nations at war, cannot lawfully be put in jeopardy by the capture or destruction of an unarmed merchantman, and recognize also as all other nations do, the obligations to take the usual precaution of visit and search to ascertain whether a suspected merchantman is in fact of belligerent nationality or is in fact carrying contraband of war under a neutral flag.

The government of the United States, therefore, desires to call the attention of the Imperial German government with the utmost earnestness to the fact that the objection to her present method of attack against the trade of their enemies lies in the practical impossibility of employing submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding those rules of fairness, reason, justice and humanity which all modern opinion regards as imperative.

U. S. Demand for Immediate Action on Part of Germany

It (the United States government) confidently expects, therefore, that the Imperial German Government will disavow the acts of which the Government of the United States complains, that they will make reparation, so far as reparation is possible, for injuries which are without measure, and that they will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subservient of the principles of warfare for which the Imperial German Government have in the past so wisely and so firmly contended.—From President Wilson's note to Germany.

AMERICANS HAVE RIGHT TO TRAVEL.

It is practically impossible for the officers of a submarine to visit a merchantman at sea and examine her papers and cargo. It is practically impossible for them to make a prize of her; and if they cannot put a prize crew on board of her, they cannot sink her without leaving her crew and all on board of her to the mercy of the sea in her small boats.

These facts, it is understood, the Imperial German government frankly admits. We are informed that, in the instances of which we have spoken, time enough for even that poor measure of safety was not given, and in at least two of the cases cited not so much as a warning was received.

Manifestly submarines cannot be used against merchantmen, as the last few weeks have shown, without an inevitable violation of many sacred principles of justice and humanity.

American citizens act within their indisputable rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business calls them upon the high seas, and exercise those rights in what should be the well-justified confidence that their lives will not be endangered by acts done in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligations and certainly in the confidence that their own government will sustain them in the exercise of their rights.

NO WARNING CAN BE AN EXCUSE.

There was recently published in the newspapers of the United States, I regret to inform the Imperial German government, a formal warning purporting to come from the Imperial German embassy at Washington addressed to the people of the United States and stating, in effect, that any citizen of the United States who exercised his right of free travel upon the seas would do so at his peril, if his journey should take him within the zone of waters within which the Imperial German navy was using submarines against the commerce of Great Britain and France, notwithstanding the respectful but very earnest protest of his government, the government of the United States.

I do not refer to this for the purpose of calling the attention of the Imperial German government at this time to the surprising irregularity of a communication from the Imperial German embassy at Washington addressed to the people of the United States through the newspapers, but only for the purpose of pointing out that no warning that an unlawful and inhumane act will be committed can possibly be accepted as an excuse or palliation for that act or as an abatement of the responsibility for its commission.

Long acquainted as this government has been with the character of the Imperial government and with the high principles of equity by which they have in the past been artuated and guided, the government of the United States iannot believe that the commanders of the vessels which committed thes acts of lawlessness did so except under a misapprehension of the orders issued by the Imperial German navy authorities.

It takes it for granted that, at least within the practical possibilities of every such case, the commanders even of submarines were expected to do nothing that would involve the lives of non-combatants or the safety of neutral ships, even at the cost of failing of their object of capture or destruction.

REGRET IS NO JUSTIFICATION.

It confidently expects, therefore, that the Imperial German government will disavow the acts of which the government of the United States complains, that they will make reparation, so far as reparation is possible, for injuries which are without measure, and that they will take immediate steps to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the Imperial German government have in the past so wisely and so firmly contended.

The government and people of the United States look to the Imperial German government for just ,prompt and enlightened action in this vital matter with the greater confidence because the United States and Germany are bound together not only by special ties of friendship, but also by the explicit stipulations of the treaty of 1825 between the United States and the Kingdom of Prussia.

Expressions of regret and offers of reparation in case of the destruction of neutral ships sunk by mistake, while they may satisfy international obligations if no loss of life results, cannot justify or excuse a practice, the natural and necessary effort of which is to subject neutral nations and neutral persons to new and immeasurable risks.

The Imperial German government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any act necessary to the performance of its ascred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens, and of safeguarding their free exercise and enjoyment.

(Signed) BRYAN

"AMERICAN NOTE CANNOT BE MISUNDERSTOOD," DECLARES TAYLOR

FINDS U. S. ATTITUDE IS CORRECT

By HANNIS TAYLOR.

Former United States Minister to Spain and noted as an authority on international law.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—I do not hesitate to say that in my judgment the President states the American case against Germany with a distinctness which cannot be misunderstood by any one familiar with the language of diplomacy.

The crux of the whole matter is this:

If a merchant vessel of a belligerent is loaded down with contraband of the most dangerous kind, the only penalty she can possibly incur under existing international law is capture as a prize by the enemy.

On such a vessel a neutral passenger has centainly all the right to protection guaranteed by international law to one of the belligerent crew.

After the vessel has been made a prize, it cannot be destroyed under any circumstances until the safety of the lives of all on board, belligerent and neutral, has been provided for.

For that simple reason it is impossible for submarines to be employed lawfully in a capture of merchant vessels for the safety of whose crews it cannot provide before destruction.

Let me give a practical illustration drawn from the acts of Admiral Semmes, who did much to destroy the merchant marine of the United States during the Civil War. While he burned many ships, after providing for the safety of the crew, he never claimed the right of destruction, unless that could be done.

When a case arose in which he could not provide for those on board of a prize, he invariably released her, requiring only a bottomry bond of the captain made payable to the Confederate States in the event they established their independence. As Admiral Semmes was a very learned international lawyer, he knew and admitted that a prize cannot ever be destroyed until the lives of all on board have first been provided for. That is the great proposition which has been so clearly defined in the note of our Secretary of State.

That is issue which Germany must meet under the law of nations, which does not and cannot admit that under any circumstances can a submarine destroy on high seas an unarmed merchant vessel until she has been first made a prize.

As a prize she cannot then be destroyed until the safety of all on board has been provided for.

TURNER GIVES VIEWS IN U. S. COURT HEARING

NEW YORK, May 14.—The sudden listing of the Cunarder Lusitania almost immediately after she had been torpedoed was due to the water filling the three-foot space between her inner and outer skins, according to the declaration made by Edward Wilding, managing director of the shipbuilding firm of Harlan & Wolff of Belfast.

Mr. Wilding was testifying in the United States District Court. The White Star Company seeks to limit its liabilities growing out of the Titanic disaster to $97,000.

"A double skin is useless unless transversed bulkheads be extended to the outer skin, which was not the case in the Lusitania, declared Mr. Wilding.

"ADDED TO DANGER."

He said that after the Titanic disaster the Olympic was refitted with an inner skin, seven inches from the hull. In the case of the Lusitania, however, with the inner skin three feet from the hull, it was only an added danger, he declared. The testimony of Captain W. T. Turner of the Lusitania, taken the day before the liner sailed on her last trip, was read into the record. After describing the use of bulkheads, he took up the question of the fields and said:

"I would slow down a big ship in an ice field to about 8 knots. That I believe is the rule of the Cunard Company. Another rule is that the captain remain on the bridge, and the chief engineer and his staff stand by."

Captain Turner said he was in command of the Mauretania, which sailed two days after the Titanic received news of the ice field and went sixty-five miles to the southward after being warned.

Q.—In your opinion, Captain Turner, was it prudent to steam twenty miles an hour when ice was reported ahead, even in a calm sea? A.—Certainly not. If ice is anywhere close it is foolish to do so. I should go south of the ice to get out of the way of it.

Q.—Would it be reasonably safe for a vessel to proceed at twenty knots an hour or upward? A.—Certainly not. Twenty knots through ice? My conscience!

Q.—Have you learned anything about the accident? A.—Not the slightest. It will happen again.

Q.—Does not the cold water give warning of the ice? A.—It has no more effect than a blister on a wooden leg.

Q.—Do you give the men in the crow's nest binoculars? A.—Certainly not. You might as well give them soda water bottles.

Asked about the construction of ships, Captain Turner said he did not know much about it and that he was interested in them only as long as they were afloat.

"But, if they sink, I get wet," he added.

PARIS, May 14.—A dispatch to Figaro says the French captured 6,000 Germans in the battle north of Arras.

LONDON CROWDS RENEW RIOTING

By HERBERT TEMPLE,

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, May 14.—Interment of the 19,000 Germans and Austrians in Great Britain was begun today by Scotland Yard and the special war constables working under the direction of the home office. Many of the women and children and men too old for military service will be deported.

At the present time about 40,000 unnaturalized aliens, of whom 24,000 are men, are at large. About 19,000 non-naturalized alien enemies have already been interned.

Most of the 20,000 aliens in London are expected to surrender voluntarily for provisional internment until regulation camps are ready. Many of the prisoners will be held in Ireland.

Throughout the day crowds of Germans and Austrians—men and women alike—gathered at the police stations, voluntarily giving themselves up for their own protection. The station yards were piled high with baggage of all descriptions, for the aliens carried all their portable effects with them.

Many hotels and restaurants that had relied exclusively upon German help lost their whole staffs.

FRENCH PUSH ON NORTH OF ARRAS

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK.

Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, May 14.—Despite a furious rain storm the French have continued their attacks north of Arras, winning several German trenches southwest of Souchez, says an official statement issued by the French War Office today. In the valley of the Aisne German works were destroyed by French artillery.

The communique in full follows:

"Rain has fallen without cessation since yesterday morning. Last night we captured, in spite of the difficulties of water soaked and slippery ground, several German trenches to the southwest of Souchez and maintained, on the rest of the front from Loos to Arras, all our gains of the preceding days.

"In the valley of the Aisne we destroyed four German blockhouses and demolished several trenches."

GERMAN ATTEMPT TO PIERCE LINE IS CHECKED BY BELGIANS

HAVRE, France, May 14.—The repulse of a German effort to break through the Belgian lines near Dixmude is reported in the following official statement issued here today, this being the temporary seat of the Belgian government:

"On the night of May 11-12 violent fighting occurred after a heavy bombardment of our front. The Germans advanced in mass formation against a bridge head we had established on the Yser, but the attack had been anticipated, and the enemy was mowed down by rifles and machine guns in the hands of our men. The attack was repulsed.

"We made numerous prisoners and afterward counted 200 German dead on the field."

TRANSYLVANIA'S DOOM IS FORECAST BY CUNARD MEN

By HAYDEN TALBOT,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

QUEENSTOWN, May 14.—Everybody is now waiting for the Transylvania, which is due here on Saturday.

Nobody of the Cunard line here expects anything except that she will meet the same fate as the Lusitania. But all is quiet in the realization that nothing can be done in advance to prevent such a fate. There is undoubtedly a covey of submarines outside waiting for the Transylvania, and no matter what her course may be some one will get her.

It has been so long since Queenstown slept the night through that now most of us find bed too surely a place of hideous nightmares to visit until complete mental and physical exhaustion drives us to seek a few hours' unconsciousness.

AWAKE ALL NIGHT.

This statement refers not only to the several score of survivors, relatives and friends who are still here hoping against hope that their loved ones may be among those brought in by tugs, but also to the hundreds of newspaper men and grizzled veterans of the Cunard line.

When one has seen bodies of women and children carried ashore day after day and laid on a sawdust covered floor in a shed, one's mind finally becomes dulled to a point of callousness, wherein only the silent long hours of the lonely morning, when all the rest of the world is asleep, can bring the consequent chill of terror.

Thus it happens that many of us sit up until dawn, each silently admitting his dread of sleep, all eagerly forwarding every excuse for the prolongation of conversation that means another hour of companionship.

STRUCK BETWEEN BOILERS.

Thus it was that I got early this morning the Cunard company's version of the story from the lips of a man who has been working eighteen hours a day in feverish activity. He is a captain who has commanded many Cunard liners in his day, but is now retired.

"One submarine could not sink the Lusitania," he said. "From the chief engineer I got accurate information as to where the first torpedo struck. It was between the first and second boiler rooms. It tore a hole about twenty feet square in the side of the ship. But this alone would not have sunk the ship, although the explosion of the boilers was enough to cut off all her power.

"The first engineer, curiously enough, was saved by netting slung along the lower deck to protect the stokers from being washed overboard by a wave. Almost immediately the ship sank below the level of this deck. The chief engineeer was swept aft by the onrushing water. He was not swept overboard, however, thanks to the netting.

"He managed to get on to the deck above where the water swept clean aft and out into the open space. The captain told me a curious story of his escape. When the ship made the plunge he dived forward off the bridge and caught the signal halyards. As the ship sank he went up hand over hand, actually remaining level with the water, but overcoming the suction by his head on the halyards. He just succeeded in dodging the crosstrees of the foremast and swam until he got hold of a piece of wreckage."

WILSON WROTE HISTORIC NOTE IN OWN HAND

WASHINGTON, May 14.—President Wilson's note to the German government, which members of the administration believe will become an historic document, was written originally by the President in shorthand. This is a favorite method of Mr. Wilson in making memoranda.

The shorthand characters of the President filled six pages of ordinary note paper. After he had set down the communication in this way, the President transcribed it on his own typewriter. As far as known, no official or clerk of the White House had any part in the transcription of the document until after it had been presented to the Cabinet. Not even Secretary Bryan saw it in advance of that time.

The note is dated May 13. It was suggested the President purposely held it over before transmitting it to Germany. He has always regarded "13" as his lucky number.

AMERICANS IN GERMANY NOW NUMBER 1,500

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Officials of the State Department said today there were not more than 1,500 Americans in Germany at the present time. Some of them were inclined to believe the number might not run over 1,000. It is estimated at the department that there are not more than 300 citizens of this country in the German capital. In the vicinity of Munich it is believed there are about 200.

There are a number of representatives of American business concerns scattered throughout the country and approximately 100 American professors and students in the various educational centres. There are also a number of American mechanical experts connected with some of the great German industrial plants.

When the war begun last August there were between 25,000 and 35,000 Americans in Germany. The great majority of them departed without delay.

J. C. Brownstone and Company, who manufacture some of the finest clothes made in New York City, outgrew their Broadway quarters and were about to move to famous Fifth Avenue when our clothing buyer happened to drop in.

Rather than move the merchandise, the Brownstone Company made Wolf's a very generous price concession on a number of splendid garments and this fact enables us to hold a sale which we believe to be one of the strongest value-giving clothing sales that it has ever been our good fortune to announce.

The merchandise manufactured by this concern is of the finest type. Their product is confined to a very exclusive trade. As far as we know, it is the first time Brownstone suits have ever been placed on any cut price sale.

The values are tremendous and we have no hesitancy in saying that no sale of such importance has been heralded in Boston for a decade or more.

Says Thin People Can Increase Weight

Food Alone Produces Fat, Says Noted Expert—How to Turn Food Into Healthy Flesh.

The reason that some people are chronically thin and under normal weight, says a noted authority, is because of a chronic leakage of the fat-making elements in their food. The assimilative functions of their stomach and intestines are not working properly. Only a small portion of the food nourishment in their meals ever reaches their blood—just enough perhaps to keep life within the body—the rest passes out as waste. The problem of gaining weight and flesh depends entirely therefore on a natural stopping of this dangerous waste of fats and the correction and repair of the organs of assimilation.

For those who wish to gain healthy flesh and put on from ten to twenty pounds of weight a single Sargol tablet taken at meals for a few weeks will almost invariably produce the desired effect. Sargol does not of itself build flesh, but, swallowed with your food, it acts upon every mouthful you eat, first separating all the fats, oils, sugars, starches and other flesh-making materials from the food waste and then preparing all the nourishing elements to a form which the blood can readily accept and distribute all over the body. Sargol stops the leakage of fats, keeps all the flesh-making materials within the body, allows only the worthless waste to leave it. It further repairs the faulty organs of assimilation, enabling them gradually to properly perform their natural functions so that the new found flesh "stays put." Sargol is not an experiment. Thousands have used it and proved it. Its action is natural and harmless and it is seldom indeed that it cannot produce an increase of from ten to twenty pounds of natural healthy flesh on any person who is underweight. Leading druggists everywhere sell it with a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every package.

143,000 RUSSIANS TAKEN IN 10 DAYS

By STEVEN BURNETT,
Personal Correspondent of the International News Service.

VIENNA, May 14.—All along the front in the Carpathians the Austro-German armies continue to advance, capturing thousands of Russian prisoners and such enormous quantities of war materials that it will take many months to enumerate the booty, says an official statement issued today.

From May 2 to May 12 the Austrian-Germans captured 143,000 prisoners and 100 cannon and 350 machine guns. The Third and Eighth Russian armies have been practically annihilated.

The Russians in Southern Poland north of the Vistula are also falling back and the German army that occupied Kielce is pushing forward in pursuit. A battle is in progress on the frontier of Bukowina, where the Russians attempted an offensive to offset Austro-German pressure in the Carpathians.

Confusion reigns in the ranks of the Russians falling back through the eastern ranges of the Carpathians. In one night men from fifty-three different Russian regiments were captured.

Genuine Donegal Hand-Woven Irish Homespun Suits for Men

Special 22.50

First we imported this ideal cloth for hot weather suits. Then had them made after a model that has proven desirable—this information gathered from sales of our regular stock.

Coats are half lined—some patch, some regular pockets; trousers are reinforced at crotch and knees are capped; this last is a small item, but note some time when you are looking at clothing how few trousers are so made; it prevents bagging at the knee and makes trousers "slide" easily.

These are not "Outing" suits. Coat, Waistcoat and Trousers. They are tailored at every point where good tailoring counts.

CITY CLUB STANDS BACK OF WILSON

One thousand members of the City Club pledged their support to President Wilson in the present crisis at a meeting addressed by William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce. Mayor Curley asked for three cheers for the President from the members of the club through the Secretary of Commerce. Acknowledging the tribute, Mr. Redfield said:

"It is not for me to intrude upon matters of foreign affairs, but if the President could sepak to me now he would say that the support of a people too mighty to be other than calm; too strong to be other than self-contained; too wise to be other than firm and wholly unafraid, is the greatest support that he could have in guiding the ship of state along the lines of peace and honor."

President John H. Fahey of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Collector of the Port Edward Billings, Postmaster Murray, Alfred L. Aiken, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank; President Arthur L. Williston of the Wentworth Institute, George S. Smith and James W. Rollins also paid tribute to President Wilson and urged support for him.

RASH ON FOOT RED AND INFLAMED

Itched Day and Night. Stocking Irritated. Used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. After a Month Foot as Well as Ever. Also Healed Scurf On Little Girl's Head.

27 North Ave., Attleboro Falls, Mass.—"Two years ago my son, through a bruise on his foot, suffered with a severe sore foot. A rash broke out. His foot was terribly red and inflamed and itched day and night. He had to have it bandaged, his stocking irritated the tender flesh so. At last we persuaded him to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. His foot had been running continually for a month. Inside of two weeks he was able to wear a shoe on that foot, and after a month's steady treatment his foot became as well as ever.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment also healed a serious scurf on my little girl's head." (Signed) Mrs. M. I. Gammons, Sept. 29, '14.

Dr. Edythe Ashmore, the most famous woman osteopath in the world, and a professor at the American School of Ostepathy at Kirksville, Mo., opened the New England Osteopathic Association's convention at the Hotel Lenox today.

Nearly five hundred delegates were present. President Dr. Clarence H. Wall of Providence presided.

A feature of the day was a lecture on nervous diseases by Dr. J. Ivan Dufur of Philadelphia, illustrated with moving pictures of patients as an aid to diagnosis.

Other speakers were Dr. Mark Shrum of Lynn, Dr. Robert H. Nichols of Boston, Dr. Francis A. Finnerty of Montclair, N. J., and Dr. Harry M. Goehring of Pittsburgh.

Tonight Dr. William H. Fitzgerald of Hartford, Ct., will lecture on his system of anaesthesia by pressure of the fingers.

The animal finally came to a stop when it was pocketed between a house and a fence.

EATON CHARGES WIFE BEAT AND ABUSED HIM SINCE 1911

Charles S. Eaton, owner of Thompson's Spa, who is suing his wife for divorce, in specifications filed in the Essex County Superior Court at Salem, charges that his wife has beaten and abused him with her language since 1911.

Mr. Eaton alleges that his wife, Ella F., who was thirty-three years old at the time of her marriage, would not let him call for his eldest son at a critical period in his health, dragged him down the stairs and made him sleep in the open air while he was suffering from a serious illness.

Aside from all this, the specifications say, she made him go out in the night when he had a severe cold and the result of his obedience to her demand was pneumonia.

At the time of his marriage Mr. Eaton gave his age as fifty-two. They were married in Marblehead on July 4, 1909. It became known that Mrs. Eaton came from Pasadena, Cal., and had been previously married.

MRS. EATON TO FIGHT.

Last year the couple separated, Mrs. Eaton going to her home in Pasadena and Mr. Eaton remaining at Marblehead and looking after his business.

Mrs. Eaton is determined to contest the allegations made by her husband.

Among the specifications filed by Sherman Whipple is one to the effect that in the Winter of 1910-11 Mr. Eaton was advised by his physicians to remain indoors, particularly in the evening, because of a severe cold. His wife insisted on his going out against the orders of the physician and the protest of her husband. "Pneumonia resulted," say the specifications.

The allegations continue to the following effect:

"In or about the month of May, 1911, at Marblehead, Mass., the libellee struck the libellant in the face and broke his glasses.

FACE CUT BY GLASSES.

"On or about April 28, 1912, at Marblehead, Mass., the libellee struck the libellant in the face, breaking his glasses and cutting his face.

"Beginning in the Fall of the year 1913 the libellee began a systematic course of action toward the libellant, deliberately belittling, humiliating and oppressive. The actions and language of the libellee were deliberately intended and calculated to belittle and humiliate the libellant before his family, his servants and his friends. Increasing in character and amount, this course of action culminated in a severe illness on the part of the libellant, involving a dangerous heart affection and a weakened and precarious condition of health.

"In or about the month of August, 1913, while returning from New York by motor with the libellee, the libellee used such aggravating, unreasonable and untruthful language to the libellant that he was obliged to leave the motor and come home by train.

FORCED TO SLEEP OUTDOORS.

"While ill and under the doctor's care, beginning with the first week in January, 1914, and extending to the time, on or about the 25th of March, 1914, when your libellant was taken from his house to the hospital, the libellee continued and persisted in the above-mentioned course of language and of action, and in particular the libellant specifies the following items:

"(a) The libellee, while the libellant was seriously ill and weak, persistently insisted that the libellant should sleep on the sleeping porch in the open air.

"(b) At one time, when the libellee had insisted that the libellant should sleep in the open air on the sleeping porch and he objected to doing so because his heart was dangerously affected and his temperature was exceedingly high, the libellee laid violent hands upon him and pulled him part way down stairs.

"(c) While the libellant was in the above mentioned serious and precarious condition of health, the libellee stated publicly that there was nothing the matter with him, but that he was simply nervous.

SLEEP DISTURBED.

"(d) While the libellant was dangerously sick in bed, the libellee, against the instructions of the libellant's physician and his nurse, persisted in coming into his room late at night or very early in the morning, awakening him out of his sleep and seriously disturbing his condition by aggravating, irritating and threatening manner and language.

"(e) While the libellant was seriously ill in bed and believed he was in danger of death and asked to have his eldest son sent for, the libellee objected to having him sent for.

"(f) While the libellant was in the above mentioned condition the libellee stated publicly that he was cranky and fussy and refused in any way to alter her own methods of life or interfere with any of her social engagements because of his illness.

"(g) The libellee publicly stated that there was nothing the matter with the libellant except that he was a little nervous, and directed treatment for his condition contrary to directions and in a way calculated seriously or permanently to threaten his health and even his life.

OBJECTED TO SON'S VISIT.

"(h) While the libellant was in the above mentioned serious physical condition the libellee refused to acquiesce in the libellant appointing his eldest son trustee of his estate in case he died, and used threatening language to the libellant in case he did not abandon any idea of having his eldest son appointed trustee and the libellee substituted in his place.

"(i) While the libellant was in the above mentioned serious condition the libellee indulged in undue use of intoxicating liquor.

EMERY WILL IS BROKEN BY JURY

A jury in Judge White's session of the Suffolk Superior Court today returned a verdict breaking the will of Judge Samuel W. Emery, formerly of Boston and at one time city solicitor of Portsmouth, N. H.

It was a victory for the testator's son, Samuel W. Emery, a young attorney who twice successfully fought the case to win a share of the estate from his stepmother for himself and his two sisters, Miss Marguerite Emery of Portsmouth and Mrs. Walter H. Weeks of Amesbury, who were cut off with $1 each.

Young Emery alleged that his father's second wife exercised undue influence in the making of the will, which gave her everything. He personally presented evidence and argued the case before Judge Fessenden. A jury found that undue influence had been used and broke the will. Judge Fessenden set aside the verdict.

Emery carried the case to the Supreme Court on exceptions and was granted a new trial. Again he fought the case before Judge White and a jury and won. The estate is valued at $60,000.

Decree Entered in Shoe Machine Case

The Federal District Court's decree in the United Shoe Machinery Company suit was entered at the Federal building as of today to permit the government to have sufficient time in which to perfect its appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

The Federal District Court nearly two months ago handed down its opinion declaring the United Shoe Machinery Company guiltless of the charges of violating the anti-trust law. Entering this decision as of today gives United States District Attorney George W. Anderson sixty days in which to perfect his appeal of the case to the Supreme Court.

Radcliffe Idler Club Gives Play

The Radcliffe Idler Club presented "Beauty and the Jacobin," by Booth Tarkington, a play of the French Revolution, at the college yesterday. Grace Wardwell, sophomore president, was leading lady. Sylvia Carter, as Lanio, the hero, made a hit when for a time she was "disguised" as a girl. Marion Graves, Elizabeth Hawthorne and Abbie Tuller were other prominent members of the class. Eunice Allen, next year's Idler president, was chairman of the day.

Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

The Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, contains an article on "The Treatment of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, Based on the Assumption That the Dietetic Cause of the Disease Is Lime Starvation," by Dr. John F. Russell, who says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. * * * Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance * * * but if the salts are not in organic combination it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm us in the belief that the success of Eckman's Alterative in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption) and chronic throat and bronchial troubles is due in large measure to its content of lime, so combined with other ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results obtained in many cases of these affections, which appear to have yielded to Eckman's Alterative.

Contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, hence a trial is safe. For sale by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

Sues Divorced Husband, Asks for $150,000

NEW YORK, May 14.—Lillian P. Dale, who divorced Francis Colgate Dale in Nevada a year ago, has entered suit against him for $150,000 which she alleges is due under a pre-divorce agreement.

Mrs. Dale sued for separation and alimony in this city, but the court refused to find in her favor. She then obtained a Nevada decree. She alleges this was a result of an agreement by which her husband stipulated to support her in affluence for life if she did not ask for alimony in her divorce decree or for the custody of their child.

Despite this agreement, Mrs. Dale asserted her husband has refused to contribute anything to her support since last March. She says he has an income of about $30,000 a year.

FILM MEN THEMSELVES CENSOR MANY REELS TO KEEP STANDARD

Motion picture men resent the impression circulated by the antis in the censorship war that distributors and exhibitors are careless about the standard of films which they handle. They call attention to the fact, with no little pride, that many films are voluntarily censored by the film men themselves at exchange tryouts and never are displayed on public screens.

The Senate Committee on Ways and Means was told by the New England manager of a popular film exchange that his concern does not depend alone on the censorship of the national board, but has strict rules of its own.

He reminded the solons that other exchanges and motion picture men generally are careful not to offend or degrade public morals. He said motion picture men had a pretty exacting code of their own in judging films before they are presented to the public, a system so stern that if reformers and critics knew the practice they would not waste time and breath howling for things that are not clear to themselves.

Nobody who mingles with the film men and who chats with them and studies their methods can for a minute doubt their sincerity in the endeavor to give young and old clean and wholesome and educational entertaiment by means of the latest amusement agency—the camera. The "movie" managers claim the antis have misrepresented many features of the industry, magnified certain conditions and facts and confused the public mind.

It is no secret at the State House that legislators and committees are already weary over the censorship wrangle, because they feel like a boy in one of those beach "funny houses." It is all a maze to them and they have groped since the race and religious brand hurled by Representative Sullivan of Dorchester blinded the issues.

The motion picture promoters in Greater Boston have implicit confidence in the personnel, policy and standards of the National Board of Censorship, so much confidence that the rank and file of exhibitors consider new legislation unnecessary, and that the present statute giving the Mayor and police commissioner the right to suspend objectionable films is adequate.

They say the Boston public ought to study the standards of the national board and judge for themselves how well they protect morals. The standards set up by the national board are as follows:

1.—The board prohibits obscenity in all forms.

2.—The board prohibits vulgarity when it offends or when it verges toward indecency, unless an adequate moral purpose is served.

3.—The board prohibits the representation of crime in such a detailed way as may teach the methods of committing crime except, as in the judgment of the board, the representation serves as a warning to the whole public.

4.—The board prohibits morbid scenes of crime, where the only value of the scene is in the morbidity or criminal appeal. Nevertheless, the board cannot judge films exclusively from the standpoint of children, of delicate women, of the emotionally morbid, or of any one class of audience. But the board does take into consideration, as one of the controlling motives governing it, the fact that possibly twenty-five per cent, of the total motion picture audience is made up of children under sixteen.

5.—The board prohibits the unnecessary elaboration or prolongation of scenes of suffering, brutality, vulgarity, violence or crime.

6.—The board prohibits blasphemy, by which is understood the careless or wanton or unnecessary offence against religious susceptibilities of any large number of people in the country.

7.—The board prohibits anything obviously or wantonly libellous in films, anything calculated to cause injury to persons or interests from an obviously malicious or libelous motive, and films dealing with questions of fact, which relate to criminal cases pending in the courts.

But the board does not censor pictures from the standpoint of protecting the exhibitor or manufacturer from the consequences of producing a film which may alienate some powerful element in the community. To illustrate: The board would permit the production of a film containing a non-libelous attack on a great political party, even though the circulation of this film would result in making enemies for the producer of the films, or for the whole motion picture business.

The board retains the right to forbid, at its discretion, the exploitation of unworthy reputations, such as the morbid representation of persons who may have been associated with famous criminal cases.

8.—In addition to the above specifications, the board feels in general that it is right in forbidding scenes or films which, because of elements frequently very subtle which they contain, have a deteriorating tendency on the basic moralities or necessary social standards.

WHERE NEW JOYS AWAIT YOU ON THE AMERICAN'S TRIP

Tomorrow marks a big milestone in the American's Great California Tours Contest. The first half of the big competition ends today and tomorrow will see all the fighting candidates launched out on the last lap of the race.

My, how the time has flown! It seems but a few days since the first coupon appeared. And the remaining half of the contest will pass even more quickly.

The time has gone by for dilly-dallying, for hoping, for wishing—action, vote-gathering action is now the watchword.

And, like all other things in this life that are really worth while, these splendid tours are worthy of any one's best effort.

Think it over! Over three weeks of DE LUXE traveling and luxurious sight-seeing.

Barring the time spent en route, most of the time as a guest of this newspaper will be spent in California. In looking over the itinerary, you will see that you arrive in San Francisco on Sunday, August 1st, and that you have four days there; the fifth day will be spent at Big Trees and Santa Cruz; the sixth day will be spent at Del Monte; the seventh day will be spent at Los Angeles; the eighth day at San Diego; the ninth day en route through Southern California, that is, you have nine days in California—nine days in the most wonderful climate in the world, almost the equal of that magic land "where comes not rain or hail or any snow nor ever winds blow loudly."

Yours will be the delights of visual feasts, the like of which you have never even pictured.

All you have to do to realize what a wealth of sight-seeing looms ahead is to read even casually one of the prospectuses of the [illegible]

If you were set down in a fairyland and told by some genii to wish for anything you might desire, you certainly could not be more surprised than you will be when you enter the Exposition Grounds by the Golden Gate.

Wonderful palaces, gorgeous towers, resplendent colors—these will all confront you set in a wonderful picture backed by hills and sea.

Everything will be done by the American to make your journey as pleasant as it can be made.

If you do not enjoy yourself, it will not be for lack of inducement.

Another page of candidates' photographs will appear in next Sunday's American.

Candidates, and the friends of candidates, are again reminded that all Series "C" Coupons must be in the hands of the Contest Editor or mailed on or before 5 p. m., Monday, May 17.

Friends of the candidates should see that all votes are sent to their favorites in ample time to be turned in before the time limit expires.

The vote standing of all candidates in the American's California Tours Contest will be printed in the Sunday American two weeks from next Sunday, May 30.

Five Win Harvard Oratory Prizes

Henry Epstein of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Philip Lowry of Erie, Pa., were awarded first prizes of $30 at the annual Boylston prize speaking contests at Harvard. Three second prizes of $20 each were won by Louis Rubin of Roxbury, Harold A. Packard of Roslindale and Sidney, B. Pfeifer of Boston. Mayor Good announced the prize winners.

HE IS DELIGHTED AT THE RESULTS

Neil McLaughlin, Popular Business Man, Relates Unusual Experience.

Thousands of people in Boston are needlessly suffering from disorders of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys. Relief is near at hand and is in the reach of everyone. Many have found quick deliverance from their suffering by the use of Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, which is composed of a combination of nature's remedies, roots, herbs, barks and berries, that are essential to health. That is why it regenerates the blood supply, overcomes rheumatism, eliminates catarrh and puts the stomach in condition to digest the food properly.

NEIL McLAUGHLIN

That it is proven conclusively it is only necessary to listen to the statements made daily by local people who have given Plant Juice a fair trial.

The following testimonial is from Mr. Neil McLaughlin, who lives at Onset. Mr. McLaughlin needs no introduction, as he is well known in business and lodge circles, and was born and reared in Boston. He said:

"I had recently heard some of my friends talking about your medicine, Plant Juice, and they were so enthusiastic that I decided to try it. I had been troubled with stomach trouble, pronounced indigestion and dyspepsia, and had been in a very generally run-down condition for years. When I would try to eat a meal I had no appetite and the food did not taste good to me. What little I did eat fermented and formed gas and I suffered from a feeling as though of fullness and bloating. I was nervous and restless, and when I retired my sleep did not do me any good. I have been taking Plant Juice now for about ten days and I find that it is just the medicine that I needed, for I am feeling rested, can sleep at night and my food does not distress me. I am recommending Plant Juice to all of my friends."

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett's Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy. On Saturday he will remain at the store until 10 o'clock P. M. to meet those unable to call during the day. Free samples given—Advertisement.

Educates Persian Boys

Mme. Khan Has New Fad

Mme. Ali Kuli Khan, who was Florence Breed of Boston.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—One of the pet philanthropies of Mme. Ali Kuli Khan, wife of the Persian Charge d'Affaires in Washington, who before her marriage was Miss Florence Breed, a beautiful Boston girl of an old American family, is bringing over and educating young Persian boys in America.

Mme. Khan believes that it will soon be an ordinary occurrence for Persians to come to America to be educated, and that the interchange of ideas, both commercial and educational, of our modern civilization with the spiritual ideals of the East will be of benefit to both Persia and America.

"Persia is waking up to the call of modernism, while keeping intact all its rare arts, all its Old World culture," said Mme. Khan. "It is a beautiful land, a land of great philosophers and poets."

The Persian women were the first women of the Orient to demand the vote, according to Mme. Khan.

SUGGESTS PLAN OF SEVERAL WIVES

By International News Service.

LONDON, May 14.—Frances Burke-Hart, a well known writer, has the following suggestion to make in an article published in the London Call:

"When the war is over and things have once more toned down to normal, the question as to how the superfluous women are to be disposed of seems to be in the minds of many of our leading writers. Because of this I have, I fear, shocked not a few of my acquaintances by putting to them the direct question: 'Should a man have more than one wife.'

"The replies, needless to say, have ranged from the truly pathetic to the woefully tragic.

" 'Impossible,' declared one woman, with uplifted hands. 'Such a state of things could only lead to wholesale disaster.'

SEES COMPLICATIONS.

"Yet I as a woman, say: 'Why not.' After all the law of one man, one legal wife, is merely a product of our modern civilization and just as an eastern potentate would feel strangely perplexed at the number of his wives being reduced to one so a European might feel at his portion being increased to say three or four.

"Certainly there would be difficulties and complications, but they would be short lived and each in his turn and in his own special way would sooner or later settle down happily and quite content. We are of all animals, the most conservative of habits and while old ones are oft time difficult to drop, new ones are very easily acquired.

"If there could be a general shuffle, each one starting with new ideals, new principles, fresh, firmer and more wholesome convictions, loftier aims and nobler objects, I see no logical reason why a gigantic problem should not find an adequate solution for the betterment of the race at large.

"When this terrible war is over what is to become of the tens of thousands of women who will be left on their own resources?

"From all we read and hear, this seems to be a question occupying the minds and pens of our most brilliant thinkers and writers.

WORLD WIDE PROBLEM.

" 'You women are in for a terrible time,' a man said to me the other day. I frankly agreed. What, then, is to be done?

"To my way of thinking, there is but ones solution unless, of course, nature steps in and male children predominate; and even then the problem would have to be shelved until matters levelled themselves as a matter of time.

"I would suggest that a law be passed by which a man may be permitted to possess one, two or three legal wives, as the case may be, provided he can guarantee to the authorities he is in a position to support them properly.

"A few years ago I was permitted the privilege of being a guest in an eastern harem, and during my stay, in which I talked and associated with a fair number of women, I found several opinions which have firmly convinced me that in spite of our boasted progress the solution to a world-wide problem was, at any rate in part, expressed here."

Trout Story; Local Anglers Attention

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 14.—There is a little hotel here where the chintz-shaded windows on one side of the house will be in great demand until the close of the trout season.

Right under the windows on the favored side is the stream. An angler leisurely smoking as he fished from one of the windows conceived an idea. He also caught a dandy speckled trout. He reeled it in, meanwhile calling to a cook below to bring out a skillet from the kitchen. Amazed, out she came with the skillet and held it while the fisherman dropped the trout into it. Then he refilled his pipe and waited until the cook brought the trout, all ready to be eaten, up to his room.

Honor System Urged for Harvard Classes

To place Harvard seniors and juniors on their honor in class attendance is the proposal being considered by the college faculty. At present all classes in college are subject to discipline for failure to maintain a pretty regular attendance at college engagements. The reason for the proposed introduction of the honor system is to develop that feeling of personal obligation to the job which characterizes the ance slips are kept.

Filene Corseting for Children

So important do we regard the selection and fitting of the first corset that we maintain an entirely separate shop of misses' and girls' corsets and soft underwaists.

We train the figure of the growing girl, beginning at six years through the periods of soft puff waists, lightly corded waists and lightly boned waists into the correct first corset.

A girl's first real corset should be chosen more carefully and intelligently than any other garment she wears in all her life.

Damage Suit Trial Held Up By Dr. W. E. Brown

Dr. William E. Brown of No. 334 Marlboro street, demonstrator of anatomy at Tufts College, held up a trial today in Judge Fox's session of the Suffolk Superior Court because he declined to produce an X-ray plate and because he felt that his testimony as an expert was worth more than $1.50 a day.

Dr. Brown was called as a witness by counsel for Samuel Foster whose arm was injured while cranking his automobile at Cotuit, June 8, 1913. Foster claims he was treated by Dr. Solomon F. Haskins and that because of Haskins' alleged "negligence" he suffered permanent ill effects. He seeks $10,000 damages.

Dr. Brown balked on the witness stand when summoned by Foster. Dr. Brown claimed he did not feel like testifying in view of the fact that Foster, as he claimed, owed him for professional services. Dr. Brown further stated that he thought his time was too valuable and that he didn't care to hunt up the X ray plate he took of Foster's fracture. The court ordered Dr. Brown to produce the plate.

Customs Tower Light a Beacon

The Custom House tower is now the Boston landmark first seen from far out on the ocean. Last night for the first time the huge clock was illuminated, so that the beacon shines out as distinctly at night as it does by day.

Though the clock face was lit up so that it was all but startling to Bostonians who are not accustomed to see lights so high in the air, the works of the timepiece were not in order, for the hands remained still.

Today, however, the clock will be regulated.

MISS V. C. GILDERSLEEVE, dean of Barnard College.

DORCHESTER GIRL KILLED BY WAGON

An investigation of the death of three-year-old Alice Wise of No. 11 Centre street, Dorchester, is being conducted by the police of the Adams street station. On Wednesday evening the little girl jumped on the rear step of a wagon in front of her home. The horse suddenly backed up, throwing the child. The rear wheels of the wagon passed over her head.

Dr. Francis J. Parsons of No. 567 Adams street took twelve stitches in the child's head. She died an hour and a half later.

COLLEGE GIRLS WED FOR LOVE

Barnard College is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding, and Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve is sure it has justified its existence.

"Am I afraid that men will be afraid to marry college girls for fear of their supposed terrible intellectuality? Why, I have so little experience with men that I could scarcely pass an opinion, but I surely would not wish to cast any such reflection upon them. But why assume that a college girl is necessarily terribly intellectual? You might as well say that all college men are intellectual, when you very well know they are not.

"I am sure the statistics will bear me out when I say that in the same station in life there are considerably fewer divorces among women who are college graduates than among those who are not. And I think that this is due to two reasons. In the first place, the college graduate feels herself entirely capable of making her own career for herself. Consequently when she marries it is apt to be purely for love and not for an occupation or a home or anything like that. There she has a great advantage at the start.

"Then, the college girl who marries has acquired a balance, a sense of proportion, a disposition to look at life with open eyes, that is of immense value to her in choosing a husband and choosing wisely.

Jury Disagree in the O'Brien Case

After being out all night, the jury in the case of John J. O'Brien, charged with manslaughter in killing Daniel A. Parker, superintendent of streets of Saugus, reported a disagreement to Judge Quinn in the Salem court today. On May 18, 1914, O'Brien was engaged in pumping water out of a cellar and Parker, it is alleged, ordered him to stop on the ground that he was violating a town ordinance. An argument followed and, it is claimed, O'Brien took the handle out of the pump and struck Parker over the head, inflicting injuries which caused his death.

SUNDAY GOES TO CHICAGO IN 1917

By International News Service.

PATERSON, N. J., May 14.—"Billy" Sunday has accepted the invitation of Chicago preachers and laymen to hold a revival in the metropolis of the Middle West.

The Chicago campaign will begin in January, 1917. The Chicago delegation visited Trenton, N. J., in an effort to have the latter city release Mr. Sunday from his engagement to go there in January, 1916, but the Trentonites refused.

Of the many arguments advanced by the Chicago delegation the one that impressed Sunday most was the petition of 53,000 men and women obtained by the Chicago Examiner inviting Sunday to visit Chicago. The document was a mile in length.

The delegation was headed by Bishop Samuel Fallows of the Reformed Episcopal Church and included twenty prominent clergymen of different denominations.

Sunday was informed that $50,000 had been raised by popular subscription to pay the expenses of the revival and that the individual members of the committee had guaranteed an additional $25,000 should it be needed. A delegation from Bridgeport, Ct., also called on Sunday.

Slayer of Delaware Policeman Hanged

WILMINGTON, Del., May 14.—Peter Melba, convicted of the murder of Policeman Francis X. Tierney, was hanged at the Newcastle County Workhouse at 10.23 a. m. today.

Melba made a statement on the scaffold revoking a paper in which he confessed to complicity in the murder of Rev. Joseph Zebris and his housekeeper, Eva Gillman, in New Britain, Ct., and denied all knowledge of the crime. He also declared he was a member of a gang of thieves in which police in New York and Boston are interested. The condemned man also declared that Montvid was innocent of the murder of the priest and his housekeeper and concluded by asking all for forgiveness and expressing regret.

"Amnesia Girl" Identified as Mabel Gourley

The "amnesia girl" found in the North Station by Patrolman Walsh and taken first to the Relief Hospital and then to the Psychopathic Hospital was identified at the latter institution as Mabel Gourley, daughter of Mrs. S. D. Gourley of No. 132 Vinton street, Melrose.

The hospital authorities say she has been a patient there twice before, in February and in March, 1914.

The girl became delirious at the Relief Hospital and believed someone was following her. Her condition at the Psycopathic today was unchanged.

I Am Now Ready—

For the man who has $15 as well as he who can pay $20 for a custom-made suit.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday I welcomed hundreds of friends, well wishers and prospective customers, and their suggestions have helped a whole lot.

It was my intention to open my new shop with lines of suitings at $15 as well as $20, but I had been so particular about the lower-priced goods that the delivery was delayed, and I could not show them at the opening.

Today I show two complete lines; the main one at $20 and an auxiliary line at $15—and now I am equipped to meet the requirements of men who appreciate high-class custom tailored suits, but have tired of paying fancy prices; and also those more economically inclined. My

Suits to Order at $20

Contain the high-grade fabrics of the $60 to $80 tailor, and my $15 suits will compare favorably with those you will pay more than double the price for elsewhere.

You will find a bewildering array of beautiful $15 and $20 suitings on "every" table in my shop—nothing higher—remember that; nor will I accept a cent more from you for "extras" (so-called by some tailors). $15 and $20—flat prices—that's all.

A glance at my windows tells the story. One is filled with $15 suitings, the other $20. You may make your selection from the sidewalk—walk in and ask to be measured—the price will be as the window cards state. No salesmen are necessary here, all these goods are marked in plain figures and aside from customers' instructions about style and finishing date, talking would be a waste of time and energy. Come today.

"THE GODDESS" ✣ By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

Professor Stilliter arousing Celestia, The Goddess (Miss Anita Stewart), by holding the crystal before her eyes and bidding her to wake.

THE GODDESS—the serial Beautiful—written by two famous authors and presented by the Hearst newspapers in collaboration with the renowned Vitagraph Players:

Miss Anita Stewart as the Goddess.

Mr. Earl Williams as Tommy Barclay.

Be sure to read each instalment carefully, and then see the characters and the thrilling incidents spring to life in the motion pictures.

By Gouverneur Morris and
Charles W. Goddard

J[illegible] was [illegible] angry start, and the smell perished. His offended nostrils quivered as [illegible] fit to grant. His only satisfaction was that in the morning he would hunt them down and tell them what he thought of them. [illegible] when [illegible] wasted [illegible] seven, which is a shocking hour in the woods.

He climbed to the top of the hub. Field glasses in hand he began to search the whole landscape far and near for traces of human beings. But the woods were so dense that it was like looking for a needle in a haystack. What he hoped to see, and what he did presently see, was smoke, a pale amethystine column of it rising near the base of one of the mountains.

To find the fire, or the remains of it, from which that smoke was rising would not be very difficult. He took its bearings very carefully. It was directly between him and the smallest of three barren cliffs which formed the first upthrust of the mountain, and as he judged about half a mile this side of the cliff. At the base of that cliff was a rattlesnake den, and Tommy was in the habit of giving it a pretty wide berth, for the snakes sometimes wandered long distances from their favorite ledges in search of food and water, and a good woodsman like Tommy preferred that they should do their hunting in peace.

"Just like a man who would bring cauliflower into the woods to camp in snake country," he thought; "wonder if I can pick one up with these glasses."

He focused his glasses on the base of the cliff and amused himself for some time in trying to discern a snake. But either the distance was too great or there was none in evidence, and he was about to give up when suddenly a man walked casually into the field of his vision—and out of it.

"Well, I'm jiggered," said Tommy. "I haven't found a snake, but I've found the next best thing. Now what the devil is Professor Stilliter doing in this part of the world?"

Again he lifted the glasses and again saw the professor. He appeared to be polishing something on the sleeve of his Norfolk jacket. Now and then the something flashed brilliantly in the sunlight. It might have been a pocket mirror or a great diamond. Whatever it was, Professor Stilliter presently dropped it into his pocket, forced his way into a dense clump of bushes at the very base of the cliff and disappeared.

But Tommy was not to investigate those bushes at the foot of the cliff. He was within a quarter of a mile of them, walking swiftly and quietly along an old lumber trail, when suddenly his quick ear caught a sound of footsteps and at the same moment his quick eyes caught a glimpse of something white that moved. He stepped quickly into a thicket of alders, crouched low and to all intents and purposes was blotted out of existence.

Along the trail, his heavy baby face streaming with sweat, came Professor Stilliter leading by the hand a slim and lovely girl who carried her [illegible] a princess. She was dressed in a white garment that fell in unbroken folds from her shoulders to her feet, like a Roman toga.

On her bare feet she wore thin sandals, on her bare head a circlet of gold, in which jewels flashed. Her mouth had an expression of celestial gentleness and smoothness, but her eyes, half shielded by their lids and lashes, were without expression. She seemed to Tommy like a girl, not of this earth, walking in her sleep. He had never seen a face so beautiful, so sweet or so touchingly innocent.

Having passed Tommy's hiding place Professor Stilliter turned from the trail and led the heavenly vision to a sort of natural seat that overlooked a quiet pool from which Tommy had often taken trout.

She sat reflected in the pool, and looking straight ahead of her, and not seeing—if you know what I mean. Professor Stilliter had let go her hand and was tiptoeing off abandoning her apparently, but when he had gone a little way he turned and made curious passes in the air with his hands, and spoke suddenly, in a voice of command, one word, "Wake!"

Mr. Hancock screwed up his eyes and put his head on one side. Inwardly he was quaking with fear, and he paid a good deal more attention to the frame, which he had not yet dusted, than to Crawley's chef-d'oeuvre.

A MAN AND HIS WIFE ✣ Isabel Confides Her Unhappiness to Duval and Finds Some Comfort

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XLVI.

[illegible]

WHEN the [illegible] had passed David Duval touched his companion's arm lightly.

"Come," he said, "we can cross now."

When [illegible] the street, she [illegible] her eyes [illegible]

[illegible] unspoken question [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] But please don't look so [illegible]

She cut short his lame attempt to explain away a situation that she felt to be unexplainable. "Don't!" she ejaculated sharply. "Don't lie for me! I would have died before I would have told you, but you have seen for yourself. [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] that I have pretended not to [illegible] But now you can understand that it was not the weather that depressed me. Oh—" throwing back her head with a harsh laugh—"what has come over me that I should talk like this to you?" John [illegible] friends [illegible] I don't care what he does. His life is his own [illegible] my life is my own. I am [illegible] that he has shown me this truth!

At first [illegible] a silly, girl wife [illegible] all [illegible] the counterpart of [illegible] Y[illegible] know the [illegible] souls with but a [illegible] thought, two hearts that beat as one'—and all that nonsense. Well, I believed that. Now I know better. Poor John [illegible] with another [illegible] what a horrid time I must [illegible] since our marriage!—for I have been very exacting. But now I understand the rules of the game—and I will take things differently."

She was walking rapidly up Eighth avenue, a bright red spot in each cheek. Her companion knew that she was talking wildly, yet he did not try to check her. Instead, he seemed to fall in with her mood.

"Well, [illegible] observed [illegible] different people [illegible] different ideas of marriage. Some people consider the state one of pleasant companionship and expect nothing in the way of romance. But most young people are taught to think of marriage as perfect happiness."

NATURAL TO WANT TO BE HAPPY

"Isn't it natural," she asked more [illegible] to [illegible] happy?"

[illegible] replied. "But [illegible] of marriage, [illegible] that true happiness is to be found."

"No—perhaps not," she said. "You see," with a little catch in her breath, "I was ignorant when I married. I was an idealist and tried hard to live up to my ideals. Now I have learned more wisdom—but the learning has been hard. And I can't help wanting my happiness."

"And you have a right to it!" he declared, his face flushing. This woman awakened in him a desire to give her that for which she longed. He was a man of the world, and had [illegible] that he had passed the age where he was susceptible to the charms of most women.

But Isabel Hamilton had appealed [illegible] from the first, he had called [illegible] fool when he felt [illegible] heart [illegible] faster at sight of her. Now he wanted to [illegible] that he cared for [illegible] that he [illegible] he could make her happy. [illegible] he hesitated. Ex[illegible] and good taste are powerful factors—even when a man's morals are somewhat lax.

"I don't know just where I will find [illegible] is my right," [illegible]" she added, her eyes flashing, "I am going to have it! I won't have my life cramped and spoiled just because I had ideals that nobody could live up to. That has nothing to do with myself now. I mean to take my happiness—I mean to help myself to it."

They had reached Ninety-fourth street, and were waiting to cross the avenue. The rumble of a passing car [illegible] he bent his head close to hers. "Perhaps," he murmured, "when you know me a little better you will let me help you [illegible] will you, dear lady?"

She did not [illegible] until the car had passed, and they had turned down Ninety-fourth street. Then she smiled, [illegible] her lips trembled.

[illegible] she [illegible] my mind [illegible] I don't know myself or anybody else."

"Won't you try to know me well enough to believe that I am your friend?" he asked.

She was silent until she reached the house in which she lived. Then she turned to him with a gesture of appeal.

"Please believe that I know you are my friend," she said impulsively. "Please believe, too, that you have come into my life just when I needed a friend. And one thing more—and this is the biggest 'please' of all. Please—oh, please—try to forget all the things I said [illegible] the things that were [illegible] I don't know why I should have spoken as I did. [illegible] insane, suspicious [illegible] I suppose. But you will forget it, won't you?"

DUVAL MAKES FURTHER APPEAL TO ISABEL

She was standing on the step above him, and he stood with his hat in his hand, looking up at her. "If you said wrong or foolish things," he promised, "I will surely forget them—indeed, I must have already forgotten them, for I recall no such speeches on your part. But"—a softer cadence in his voice—"there are some things you have said that I do not want to forget—that I could not forget [illegible]"

As she turned from [illegible] the stairs to her apartment, the pressure of his hand-clasp was still warm on her fingers. [illegible] she had [illegible] a little [illegible]

[illegible] John came in he greeted his wife pleasantly, and she returned his greeting in the same way. She told herself that she was so tired of thinking that nothing mattered much. If she was unusually quiet, he did not notice it. Nor did he notice that the vase on her desk held a dozen beautiful tea-roses. Yet before she went to bed she bent over them and inhaled with delight a long breath of their perfume.

They had come with David Duval's card a half hour after he had told her good-bye at her front door.

How Fat Folks May Become Slim

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY THAT CALLS FOR NO DRASTIC DIET, OR TIRESOME EXERCISES.

To be excessively fat is very mortifying. People who are too stout are [illegible] this subject. Style and fa[illegible] unhealthy and [illegible] know [illegible]

If you have been getting [illegible] and [illegible] safe and [illegible] pen [illegible] get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein [illegible] after each meal and before retiring [illegible]

Weigh [illegible] a week so as to know [illegible] losing weight. don't [illegible] single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, pleasant to take, helps digestion, costs little and is designed to reduce fatty accumulation in the system wherever located.

Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, the flesh should become firm, the skin smooth and general health improved. In fact your footsteps should even become lighter, your work easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling possession of your whole being.

Every person who is ten or fifty pounds over normal weight should give this method a trial. You will probably find it just what you need.

No Need Being Old or Wrinkled Before 75

[illegible] says any woman who has wrinkles before she's 75 is herself responsible for them. Sunshine and fresh air she considers more valuable as complexion preservers than [illegible]

The chief objection to cosmetics is that at best they only temporarily cover up defects. There are certain true aids to Nature, which may be applied with directly opposite effect. Ordinary mercolized wax, for instance, actually removes a bad or oldish complexion, by gradually, almost imperceptibly, peeling off the worn-out scarf skin. Just one ounce, procurable at any drugstore, will soon unveil an entirely new and natural complexion, with an exquisite girlish color. Of course cutaneous blemishes, like rimples, freckles, blotches, moth patches, liver spots, disappear with the discarded skin.

To prevent or remove wrinkles, a face bath which also produces natural results, is made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. This is immediately effective and gives no untoward after-effect.

Business Is Always Good for Those Who Have Good Merchandise to Sell

Thus said a great merchant recently. And he spoke truly. He might have said further—and just as truly—that business is always getting better for those who have good merchandise to sell at right prices. And he might have taken this Live Store as an illustration of the truth of his statement.

For while some have been complaining that business is "off," blaming it on the weather, or the war, or this, that, or the other thing, this store continues to forge ahead at the same rapid pace it has maintained ever since it was opened.

Merchandise of known quality and irreproachable style coupled with value-giving far beyond the ability of any high-rent, charge account store has already made this the largest and continues to keep it the fastest growing men's store in the East.

We do not refer to this great store's phenomenal business in a spirit of braggadocio, but as an indication that where so many thousands of men find pl[illegible] buying their clothes, you may reasonably expect to find the same.

YANKEE BIKERS FEAR FOREIGNERS

The arrival in New York of the advance guard of foreign bikers who plan to invade these shores during the coming Summer has thrown a scare into the camps of the American cyclists. Consequently some wonderful riding is expected at the first night meet of the season at the Revere Cycle Track tomorrow night.

The war has chased the best of the European riders to this country. Room must be made for them. The only way this can be done is to eliminate those of the other riders who fail to show the goods. Manager Nat Butler has warned the riders in tomorrow night's feature event at the beach oval that they've got to show the class or make room for others.

With this thought uppermost in their minds, it would not be surprising if a record was smashed in the twenty-five mile motor paced race, which is to be a feature of tomorrow night's event. Elmer Collins, Bobby Walthour and Leon Didier will take the gun in this event. Collins, who promises to rival Walthour's great "come back," is favored by many to win this event.

A race second only to the big tussle in importance is the five-mile heat event between Harold Rollins, the Everett boy, and Vincenzo Madonna of Providence.

The usual list of amateur and professional races will be run in connection with the big events.

George Seres of France, Caesar Moretti of Italy and Thorwald Ellegard of Denmark headed the party of foreign bikers who reached New York yesterday. Seres is said to be the best pace follower in Europe—even better than Didier, his coutryman. He's got to show this, however, before the Revere "fans" will believe it, as Didier gained a staunch following by his sensational work at the beach last season. Moretti appeared in several races at Revere last year, but Ellegard has never been seen here. He is a sprinter of considerable note and is likely to be heard from soon.

Chick Gandil Draws 3-Day Suspension

Catcher John Henry in Hospital with Cut

CHICAGO, May 14.—John Henry, catcher, was absent from the Washington lineup when Griffith's team faced the White Sox. He spiked himself in rounding first base Wednesday and was in a hospital with an ugly gash in his leg just below the knee. He will be unable to play for a fortnight, it is believed.

WILLIE RITCHIE PLANS A GREAT COME-BACK, READY FOR BALDWIN

By JACK CONWAY.

WILLIE RITCHIE, lightweight champion of America, is planning a ring campaign which he is confident will terminate with a victory over Freddy Welsh. There are few boxers who are as well qualified to fight Welsh as the supple-limbed Californian.

Ritchie lost the world's championship to Welsh after twenty rounds of fighting in London last July. But this does not mean that he would be unable to defeat the Welshman if he were to meet him in a tussie over the twenty-round route at the present time.

Welsh only won from Ritchie by a slight margin. The American boxer forced the fighting in the majority of the rounds, but Welsh's superior skill and knowledge of the fine points of the boxing game enabled him to finish in front.

There are many close followers of the game who contend that Ritchie is a much better fighter than Welsh. The San Francisco favorite has youth on his side and this is an important factor in deciding contests with the padded gloves. Ritchie is only twenty-four years of age while Welsh is twenty-nine.

IT is reasonable to believe that Ritchie would show to better advantage than Welsh in a long fight. He would recuperate very quickly between rounds while he would be able to maintain a hard, fast pace throughout the entire distance.

Welsh, on the other hand, is not eager to engage in a twenty-round battle. He has been taking part in ten and twelve-round tussles since he came to this country last Fall. He has experienced considerable success in short bouts, but has also had his share of reverses. He has been beaten by a number of boxers, but did not risk his title, as most of his contests were no decision affairs.

If Welsh were to battle Ritchie, White or one of our other star lightweights in a twenty-round contest, it would be a fifty-fifty proposition that he would be defeated. Joe Shugrue won a couple of ten-round bouts from Welsh in New York and would probably be able to vanquish him even more easily in a long battle.

RITCHIE realizes that Welsh will probably be beaten by the first good lightweight whom he meets over the Marathon distance and he is anxious to be the one to face the champion in his first twenty-round contest. Willie knows that the best way to get a match with Welsh is by winning several battles from high-class performers. This is the reason why he signed to clash with Matty Baldwin in a twelve-round bout which will be staged before the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night.

CONDITIONS have changed since Ritchie lost to Baldwin. Willie is now a veteran himself and has also youth on his side. He also has a great ambition, that of winning back the world's lightweight championship. Besides all this he wants to prove he is Baldwin's master. If he beats Matty, Freddy Welsh will be the only boxer whom he has met without being able to conquer. And Willie says that he will finally "get" the Welshman.

BALDWIN will never be the champion of the world, but he possesses enough class to make things mighty interesting for the leading boxers of his weight in the country. The Charlestown star is also one of the few men who ever won a referee's decision over Ritchie. Baldwin and Ritchie met in California in the Summer of 1911 and the local veteran was awarded the verdict after twenty rounds of fighting. Ritchie, of course, was then a youngster in the boxing game while Baldwin was a hero of more than a hundred hard fights. Matty's ring generalship and swell infighting proved too much for the slender Californian.

Warren Wins N. E. Billiard Title

Warren won the New England three-cushion billiard championship at the Imperial room when he defeated Ryder of New Bedford 50 points to 39. Throughout the tournament he has played the most consistent game of any of the contestants, having suffered but one defeat. Gillissie and Carroll will be the players this evening, and this match will decide second and third positions.

GOLFERS START IN MATCH PLAY

One of the best tournaments in the history of the semi-annual three-day meetings at the Country Club is in progress at Clyde Park today. Yesterday a triple tie for the medalist honors between National amateur champion Francis Ouimet, J. F. Guilford, the former New Hampshire State champion, and W. C. Chick of the home club left much room for speculation as to who would be the fortunate and skillful one to capture the coveted Clyde Park trophy this Spring.

Francis Ouimet, who won such a signal victory over Ray and Vardon on this same course two years ago, is naturally a favorite, but there are several players in his path who may cause him trouble.

The sixteen players who scored better than 91 yesterday started out this morning at four-minute intervals with the first pair off at 10 o'clock.

The pairings and order of starting follows:

S. K. Sterns and G. H. Lyall.
H. P. Farrington and Francis Ouimet.
M. F. O'Connell and Jesse Guilford.
W. P. Seeley and H. Foshee.
T. M. Claflin and C. W. Bass.
C. M. Amory and W. C. Chick.
P. W. Whittemore and J. H. Sullivan.
R. W. Esterbrook and H. H. Wilder.

Yale Crew Rows on Carnegie Lake

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—The Yale varsity and freshman crews, which row tomorrow against Cornell and Princeton on Carnegie Lake, arrived here and took an easy paddle of six miles to familiarize themselves with the course. A fast minute of rowing was the only strenuous work. The Princeton crews were given easy practice, a number of racing starts being the only semblance of hard work. The Cornell crews are expected to arrive here today.

Hugh Duffy, former manager of the White Sox, will be part owner with Lord.

Percy Haughton to Coach the Baseball Team

Percy D. Haughton, the Harvard football coach, will also take charge of baseball at Harvard, as a result of the resignation of Dr. Frank J. Sexton. Haughton was a star baseball player at Harvard till he graduated in 1899.

The news of Dr. Frank J. Sexton's resignation spread like wild fire around Boston yesterday afternoon and created a great deal of comment.

For the past month Dr. Sexton has been aware that the Harvard athletic committee on baseball was trying to oust him, and he knew full well that when he refused to grant the baseball committee permission to interfere with his coaching of the Crimson team they would insist that his only alternative was to tender his resignation.

When Dr. Sexton met the baseball committee, which is composed of Dr. E. H. Nichols, Barrett Wendell and Dr. Channing Frothingham, and Graduate Manager Fred Moore by appointment at the Harvard Club, Dr. Nichols attempted to tell Sexton that at the last meeting of the committee, at which Dr. Sexton was present, and during which the committee asked permission to send coaches out to Soldiers Field, Dr. Sexton had agreed to do so. At this meeting Dr. Sexton objected to the requests, but when they were all in stated that he would let the committee know his decision at an early date.

Harvard will have its hands full this afternoon trying to down the fast Boston College team, for these aggregations are scheduled to conflict on Soldiers Field at 3 o'clock.

Although Boston College has not played very many games this season, it has made a fine showing. Boston College took a fall out of John O'Hara's Georgetown nine and then followed that achievement up with a victory over Tufts. To Boston College fell the honor of administering the only defeat of the season to Jack Slattery's Tufts team.

Although Boston College is a very fast and well balanced team, the main strength is in the box, for Leo Halloran has demonstrated that he is in line to be ranked with the best college twirlers by his great work against Georgetown and Tufts. Dee, the Cambridge boy, who is doing the catching for Boston College is another boy who should be heard from in the future. Mitchell the B. C. third sacker, was formerly a member of the Worcester Academy team and although only a freshman he is as available to Boston College as he was to his "prep" school team.

Eddie Mahan will be on the mound for the crimson, despite the fact that he worked the last two innings of the Pennsylvania game on Wednesday. The present coaching regime at Harvard is of the opinion that Mahan should be worked in every second game and therefore the crimson star is in for a lot of work between now and the close of the season. Mahan has been complaining of a sore arm of late and if he should be overworked Harvard's chances for even seriously battling Princeton and Yale will be very much lessened.

Miss Bjurstedt Wins Way to Final Round

In the semi-final round of the doubles Mrs. McLean and Mrs. A. G. Miles defeated Miss M. P. Blagden and Miss [illegible], 6—1, 7—5.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were fairly active at the opening, with prices ranging lower. Within half an hour the recessional movement became more pronounced. There was hesitancy and nervousness to retard trading. It is likely that suspense will be some check upon speculation until it is known what reply Germany will make to President Wilson's communication to Berlin. The trend of prices when it is made public will depend upon its character. No Wall Street or other interest can foretell what it will be like, or when it will be given out. Until then caution should prevail.

At the end of half an hour declines in New York included Amalgamated 1⅞, Utah Copper 1⅛, Chino ⅞, American Smelting 1⅛, Inspiration ¾, Ray Consolidated ½, U. S. Steel 1⅛, Bethlehem Steel 4½, American Can 1⅛, American Car and Foundry 1⅞, American Locomotive 1½, Goodrich 1, Maxwell Motor 3½, Studebaker 1½, Westinghouse ?, Pressed Steel Car 1, Atchison ¾, Baltimore and Ohio ¾, Lehigh Valley ¾, Chesapeake and Ohio ¾, Lehigh Valley ¾, Chesapeake and Ohio ¾, Canadian Pacific 1⅛, New Haven 1⅛, Northern Pacific ¾, Union Pacific 1⅛, St. Paul 1⅛, Reading 1⅞ and Southern Pacific ¾.

Among recessions in Boston were Boston & Maine 1, New Haven 1⅛, United Fruit 2, Calumet & Arizona ½, Calumet & Hecla 5, North Butte ¾, Copper Range ½, Osceola 3, U. S. Smelting ½ and Shoe Machinery 1.

Americans were listless on the London Stock Exchange, where there was as much interest in President Wilson's warning to Germany as in New York.

U. S. COTTON REPORT.

The Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce has issued a report showing that cotton consumption in this country in April this year, exclusive of linters, was 513,619 running bales, compared with 499,646 bales in 1914. The amount held in manufacturing establishments on April 30 was 1,831,025 bales in 1915 and 1,572,958 in 1914, and in independent warehouses 2,850,189 bales in 1915 and 1,253,295 in 1914.

Imports were equivalent to 54,479 500-pound bales in 1915 and 32,917 in 1914. Exports, including linters, were 672,098 running bales in 1915 and 398,223 in 1914. Cotton spindles active during April were 30,933,236 in 1915, and 31,014,038 in 1914. Linters consumed during April were 36,862 bales in 1915 and 26,636 in 1914. There were 170,617 bales held in manufacturing establishments in 1915 and 99,851 in 1914, and in independent warehouses 81,092 bales in 1915 and 66,143 in 1914. In 1915 17,609 bales were exported.

COPPER MARKET QUIET.

The copper market continues quiet. There was some selling yesterday at 18 cents a pound for electrolytic. Small dealers are said to have very little left with which they can shade the price asked by all the large interests. In the London metal market spot and futures were each off 17s. 6d. today, while electrolytic was unchanged. Spelter was also unchanged.

It is said there is foreign inquiry in this country for from 10,000 to 15,000 tons of lead and that there is prospect of increased buying by domestic consumers. As to the foreign demand, the United States Geological Survey says no domestic pig lead had ever been exported from this country prior to last year. Leading sellers in this country are asking 4.20c. a pound for lead. If foreign buying is heavy it is believed the export price will rise up to 4.35c.

Compels All Impurities To Abandon System

Blood Troubles Can not Remain If Properly Treated.

There is in S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, a property that absolutely compels harmful influences to disintegrate and lose their identity. No matter what they are called nor how destructive they are there is in S. S. S. a powerful, searching counter influence to annihilate the most eruptive germ, causes the mucous linings to convert it into an inert substance that is quickly thrown out of the blood and out of the body by the skin, lungs, kidneys, bowels, and destroyed in the liver. There is not a single advance in medicine today that in any sense is an improvement over S. S. S. Surgery is a wonderful, masterful science, but when it comes to purifying the blood S. S. S. stands alone. Thousands of doctors have prescribed it. But fair-minded doctors long ago realized that in the vegetable nature of S. S. S. were certain ingredients that to the blood in sickness were just as essential as the flesh-building elements of the grains, meats, fats and sugars of our daily food. The average doctor is humane and of trained intelligence. He has seen the recoveries from worst cases of blood trouble by the use of S. S. S. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist. Accept no substitute. And if you wish proper advice on any form of blood trouble, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 102 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is worth while doing so.

Find Man's Body on South End Tracks

The body of a man was found lying beside the tracks of the Boston & Albany railroad at Kirkland street, South End, early today. In a pocket of the clothing was found a receipt book of the Milford Lodge Foresters of America, made out for James H. McAvoy. The man was evidently a laborer and had been killed some hours previous to the discovery of the body. He was about twenty-eight years of age.

BARNES ASSAILS ROOSEVELT STORY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 14.—William Barnes is expected to resume the stand today in the trial of his $50,000 libel suit against Theodore Roosevelt. The former chairman of the Republican State Committee spent two hours upon the witness stand in contradicting wholly or in part various portions of the testimony of Colonel Roosevelt and in giving his own version of several incidents described by the former President of the United States.

Mr. Barnes swore that he did not talk to Colonel Roosevelt about the franchise tax bill prior to its passage. He denied emphatically that he had asked the then Governor of New York to sign the bill.

With equal emphasis he denied he had ever told Colonel Roosevelt men identified with big business interests contributed to both parties in order to gain protection and that if it was not given them they would cease to contribute; that he had urged the reappointment of Lou Payn as State Superintendent of Insurance, and that he had discussed executive and legislative matters with Colonel Roosevelt on "many occasions." He said he did none of these, or a half a dozen other things the colonel described him as having done.

As for the statement accredited to him by Colonel Roosevelt that the people were not "able to govern themselves," Mr. Barnes declared he never said it.

Court Awards Woman $4,000 for One Cheek Bloom

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 14.—There is a young woman here who regards her rosy cheeks as very valuable. This really would be true, in a monetary sense, could all the epidermis of her face be charged for at the rate the Columbia Railway, Gas and Electric Company was forced to pay for about three square inches of that complexion, which was removed when she was thrown from a moving street car.

The supreme Court agreed that this cuticle was not worth all of $10,000, for which amount suit was entered by Miss Clyde Yorborough. The High Court did hold, however, that she was due $4,000 for the loss, the rosiest part of one cheek.

Girl to Put Shingle Up Near Her Father's

BERKELEY, Cal., May 14.—Miss Margaret Hayne, the California University girl just admitted to the bar, declares that she will open a law office opposite to that of her father, a highly successful attorney, and run friendly opposition to him, just to demonstrate that women can make as good lawyers as men.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

George I. Willman, advertising manager of the Studebaker Corporation, lectured before a class of the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard this morning. Mr. Willman is well equipped by experience to handle the subject matter and his talk was decidedly interesting and instructing.

While in this city, Mr. Willman is the guest of George Jordan and Joseph Donovan, respectively the wholesale and retail distributors of Studebaker cars in this territory.

Offering the payment of a bonus for the early delivery of a motor vehicle is not so rare in these days as one might suppose, at least, that seems to be the experience with the Charles S. Henshaw Company, distributors of the Dodge Brothers' car in this territory. Their orders are booked away ahead and the concern will not promise a delivery much before the latter part of July, but the desire to secure one is decidedly strong, at least such would seem to be the case from the experience of this company.

They now hold no less than three offers of $25 each as bonuses for the immediate delivery of a car, but they find no one who will surrender his delivery date for the $25.

W. J. Connell and J. A. McKone, distributors of the Overland product in Boston, are visiting the Overland plant at Toledo. They are expected to return to Boston early next week and it is understood that they will bring with them some interesting news.

E. LeRoy Pelletier, the well-known advertising man, has at last embarked in the advertising business under his own name. Of late he has been with the Stanley Clague Agency but with the merging of that company with the Taylor-Critchfield-Clague Corporation Mr. Pelletier branched out for himself and those who know him are confident success will meet his every endeavor.

Joe Dawson, the famous racing driver and winner of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis, is once more to try to win honors in that event.

ELIOT CRITICISES OLD AGE PENSION

President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, at a conference with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce to study the contributory pension plan for public employes, expressed the opinion that a general old age pension system operated through all classes of employes would be demoralizing.

Pensions are all right for college professors, policemen and firemen, he believed—for college professors that they may devote all their energies to their work without the trouble of saving money, and for policemen and firemen because they must be retired at an early age because of the physical requirements of their work.

The Missouri Pacific Railway Company

To Holders of Extended Three Year Six Per Cent. Secured Gold Notes due June 1, 1915:

Attention is called to the Company's circular dated April 10, 1915, requesting holders to extend the above notes for one year upon the collateral by which they are now secured, and stating that a cash commission of one-half of one per cent. upon the face value of the notes would be paid the noteholders upon the extension becoming operative.

The advantages of the proposed extension both to the property and to the noteholders seem too obvious to call for further argument. The Board of Directors regard the collateral by which the notes are secured as adequate, but under existing conditions it is not feasible to place a new loan secured by that collateral. Accordingly an extension of the present notes is the only means of affording the recently elected Board of Directors an opportunity to prepare and submit to the security holders a comprehensive financial plan which will adequately provide for the present and future needs of the Missouri Pacific System.

Noteholders are urged to join in said extension by promptly depositing their notes with Union Trust Company of New York, or other depositaries designated by it and named below, which will issue therefor transferable certificates of deposit.

NEW YORK, May 14, 1915.

By order of the Board of Directors

B. F. BUSH,
Chairman and President.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

The President's Note to Germany

The President's note to Germany, delivered to the American Ambassador in Berlin last night, may be an epoch-making chapter in American history

Its possible results baffle imagination. Some protest was compelled by circumstances growing out of the European war. The property of the citizens of the United States on the high seas has been menaced by both belligerents, but the lives as well as the property of our citizens have been destroyed by Germany.

It was necessary, therefore, as repeatedly suggested by the AMERICAN, that vigorous representations be made to that power of the illegality of its procedure, and of the determination of the United States to protect its citizens in the pursuit of their peaceful business in unarmed merchant ships, either neutral or belligerent.

The President's letter is undeniably vigorous, BUT IT IS POSSIBLY DANGEROUS AS WELL. The nation desired that its rightful demands should be laid before the German government, but it did not anticipate that the President would go so far beyond the plainly and soundly rightful scope of its demands as to invite a rebuff.

In reiterating his purpose expressed first in the note of February 18, to hold Germany to "strict accountability" for injuries to American lives or property done in violation of international law, the President is wholly right. Nor can there be any question of his justification in classing as such violations of international law the cases of the Falaba, the Cushing, the Gulflight and the Lusitania. He is right in demanding reparation for the injuries done in those instances, and in noting that reparation will not suffice without the taking of steps "to prevent the recurrence of anything so obviously subversive of the principles of warfare for which the Imperial German government has in the past so wisely and so firmly contended."

The statement of the offence, the demand for reparation and the insistence upon assurances that the offence would not be repeated were wholly justified, but were ALL that were justified.

But the President goes on practically to protest against the use of submarines by Germany in the war that country is waging on British commerce.

This offers Germany the opportunity to retort that so far as we are concerned the method of her warfare against England is none of our business.

We call the attention of our readers to these paragraphs, in which the President seems to overstep the necessities and proprieties of the occasion:

> The government of the United States, therefore, desires to call the attention of the Imperial German government with the utmost earnestness to the fact that the objection to its present method of attack against the trade of their enemies lies in the practical impossibility of employing submarines in the destruction of commerce without disregarding those rules of fairness, reason, justice and humanity which all modern opinion regards as imperative. It is practically impossible for the officers of a submarine to visit a merchantman at sea and examine her papers and cargo. It is practically impossible for them to make a prize of her, and, if they cannot put a prize crew on board of her, they cannot sink her without giving the crew and all on board of her to the mercy of the sea in her small boats. These facts, it is understood, the Imperial German government frankly admits.
>
> We are informed that in the instances of which we have spoken time enough for even that poor measure of safety was not given, and in at least two of the cases cited not so much as a warning was received. MANIFESTLY SUBMARINES CANNOT BE USED AGAINST MERCHANTMEN, AS THE LAST FEW WEEKS HAVE SHOWN, WITHOUT AN INEVITABLE VIOLATION OF MANY SACRED PRINCIPLES OF JUSTICE AND HUMANITY.

The submarine is the only weapon available to Germany for use upon the sea. With foresight and precaution, with that recognition of the duty of national preparedness which we wish the United States equally possessed, the Germans prepared and continually are adding to the only naval force with which they can meet Great Britain on the high seas.

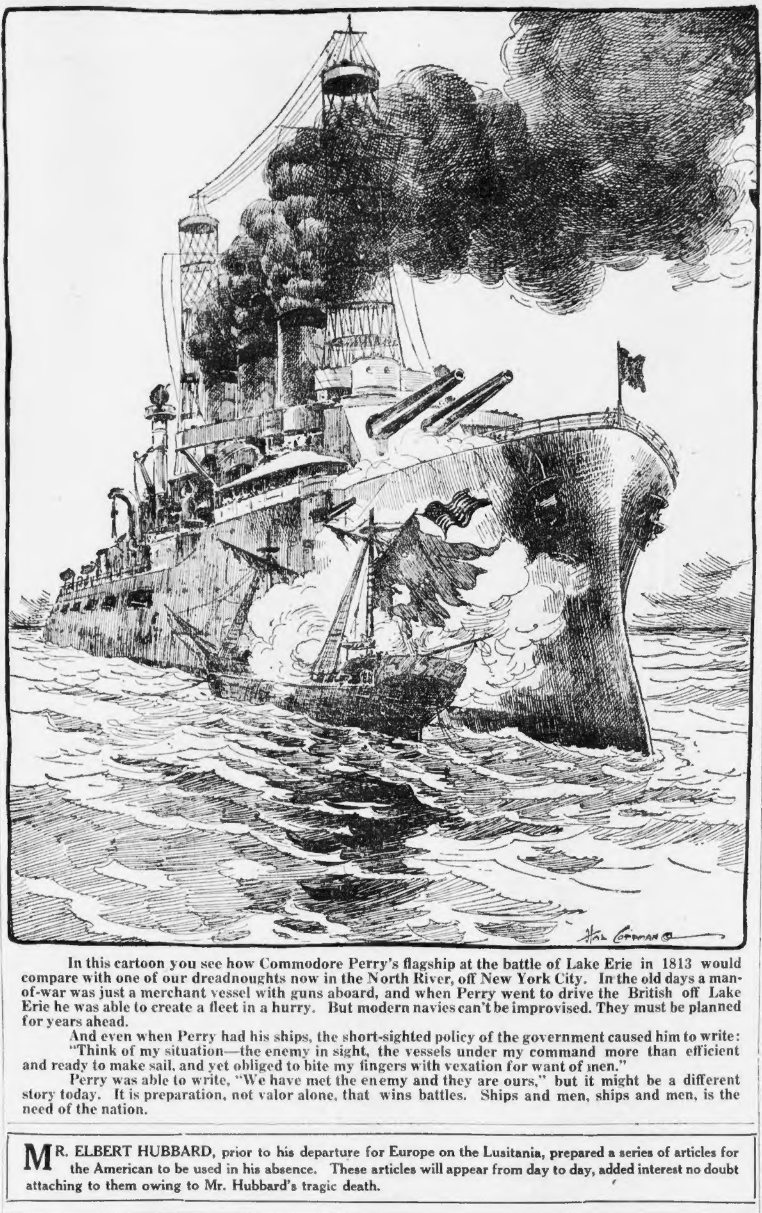
It is not our business to sympathize with Germany because her naval weapons are inadequate to meet the overwhelming power of the British Navy, but it is certainly not our business to protest against the use by Germany of such weapons as she possesses. And it is not likely that the protest will meet with very respectful consideration.

In opening the broad question of the legality and propriety of a submarine blockade, the President has abandoned the safe and firm basis of obvious and unquestioned American rights, and ventured upon the debatable ground of international exigency and morality and opened the way to a retort which it will be difficult for the United States to bear calmly. We may be subjected to an affront which we have invited, or forced into a position of undue and undesired aggression. The issue will depend entirely upon the German government's present difficulties and its unwillingness to add to its complications.

This is the more unfortunate because in his fundamental demands the President is wholly right, and expresses the sentiment and the desire of the whole people. All the rights that international law and custom assure to neutrals must be enjoyed by our people. Neither belligerent must be permitted, without vigorous protest, to rewrite the law of nations to suit its own ends, though both have tried to do it. And the President did not overstate the convictions of this people when, in closing, he said:

> The Imperial German government will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any action necessary to the performance of its sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and of saf[illegible] their free exercise and enjoyment.

Commodore Perry Could Get Ships in a Hurry



In this cartoon you see how Commodore Perry's flagship at the battle of Lake Erie in 1813 would compare with one of our dreadnoughts now in the North River, off New York City. In the old days a man-of-war was just a merchant vessel with guns aboard, and when Perry went to drive the British off Lake Erie he was able to create a fleet in a hurry. But modern navies can't be improvised. They must be planned for years ahead.

And even when Perry had his ships, the short-sighted policy of the government caused him to write:

"Think of my situation—the enemy in sight, the vessels under my command more than efficient and ready to make sail, and yet obliged to bite my fingers with vexation for want of men."

Perry was able to write, "We have met the enemy and they are ours," but it might be a different story today. It is preparation, not valor alone, that wins battles. Ships and men, ships and men, is the need of the nation.

MR. ELBERT HUBBARD, prior to his departure for Europe on the Lusitania, prepared a series of articles for the American to be used in his absence. These articles will appear from day to day, added interest no doubt attaching to them owing to Mr. Hubbard's tragic death.

The Sergeant's Place Is Hardest to Fill

By Elbert Hubbard

A COLONEL in the United States Army told me something like this: The most valuable officer, the one who has the greatest responsibility, is the sergeant.

The true sergeant is born, not made.

He is the priceless gift of the gods.

He is so highly prized that when found he is never promoted, nor is he allowed to resign.

If he is dissatisfied with his pay, lieutenant, captain and colonel chip in—they cannot afford to lose him. He is a rara avis—the apple of their eye.

His first requirement is that he must be able to lick any man in the company. A drunken private may damn a captain upside down and wrong side out, and the captain is not allowed to reply. A captain can neither strike with his fist, nor engage in a cussing match; but your able sergeant is an adept in both of these polite accomplishments.

Even if a private strike an officer the officer is not allowed to strike back.

Perhaps the man who abuses him could easily beat him in a rough-and-tumble fight, and then it is quite a sufficient reason to keep one's clothes clean.

We say the revolver equalizes all men, but it doesn't. It is disagreeable and indelicate to scatter brains and blood all over the sidewalk and attract a crowd. Also, it requires a deal of explanation afterward, and may cost an officer his stripes.

No good officer ever hears anything said about him by a private.

The sergeant hears everything, and his reply to backslack is a straight-arm jab in the jaw.

The sergeant is responsible only to his captain, and no good captain will ever know anything about what a sergeant does, and he will not believe it when told.

If a man feigns sick, or is drunk, the sergeant chucks him under the pump.

The regulations do not call for any such treatment, but the sergeant does not know anything about the regulations—he gets the thing done.

The sergeant may be twenty years old or sixty—age does not count. The sergeant is a father to his men; he regards them all as his children—bad boys—and his business is to make them brave, honorable and dutiful soldiers.

• • •

The sergeant is always the first man up in the morning, the last man to go to bed at night.

He knows where his men are every minute of the day or night. If they are actually sick, he is both nurse and physician, and dictates gently to the surgeon what should be done.

He is also the undertaker, and the digging of ditches and laying out of latrines all fall to his lot.

Unlike the higher officers, he does not have to dress "smart," and he is very apt to discard his uniform and go clothed like a civilian teamster, excepting on special occasions when necessity demands braid and buttons.

He knows everything—and nothing. No wild escapade of a higher officer passes by him, yet he never tells.

A good sergeant is a beneficent tyrant.

To break the spirit of his men will not do—it would unfit them for service—so what he seeks to do is merely to bend their minds so as to match his own.

Gradually they grow both to love and fear him.

In actual truth, the sergeant is the only real, sure-enough fighting man in the army.

He is as rare as birds' teeth, and every officer anxiously scans his recruits in search of good sergeant timber.

In business life the man with the sergeant instincts is even more valuable than in the army. The business sergeant is the man not in evidence—who asks for no compliments or bouquets—who knows where things are, who plays no outside game and has no desire save to do his work.

As an individual the average soldier is a failure.

He is only valuable as he is supervised. It is pretty much the same in business. It seems hard to say it, but many an employe in factory, shop or store is thinking of his pay envelope, and his intent is to keep the boss located and do as little work as possible.

In many cases the tyranny of the employer is to blame for the condition, but often it is the native outcrop of suspicion that prompts the seller to give the buyer no more than he can help.

And here the sergeant comes in, and, with watchful eye and tireless nerves, holds the recreants to their tasks. If he is too severe he will fix in the shirks more firmly the shirk microbe; but if he is of better fibre he may supply a little more will to those who lack it and gradually create an atmosphere of right intent, so that the only disgrace will consist in their wearing the face off the regulator and keeping one ear cocked to catch the coming footsteps of the boss.

There is no danger that there will ever be an overplus of sergeants.

Let the sergeant keep out of strikes, plots, feuds, hold his temper and show what's what and he can name his own salary and keep his place for ninety-nine years without having a contract.

If You Must Chase Butterflies—

Chase the Right Kind, the Fashionable Kind, and Learn from the Only Real Authority How to Be a FIRST-CLASS Butterfly

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

Chasing the Butterfly Fashion

It is extremely interesting to learn from HARPER'S BAZAR—the great American authority on fashions for women—just what women are doing—what their ideas are as to beauty and correct dress at this particular period in history.

The one recognized authority on women's fashions in the United States is HARPER'S BAZAR, and with childlike confidence we may accept everything that we see in that extraordinary publication, with its one hundred pages of news and fashions for women.

First and most encouraging, we notice that women are now "doing" their hair to make it look as scant as possible.

To be a really first-rate, fashionable young woman you should have your hat tilted in one direction, your eyes turned in the other direction, your hands held out with the fingers spread apart as though there was something sticky on them, your dress short, your boots queer, your waist about as big as your chest, and, as we have said, as little hair as possible.

Those that want to be fashionable are arranging their hair to look as though it were cut short. What a blessing it would be if women would travel the whole road and ACTUALLY CUT OFF THEIR HAIR!

It is estimated by competent authorities that on the face of the globe three hundred and fifty million women spend three hundred and fifty million hours every two weeks washing their hair, drying it in the sun, in front of the electric fan, spread over a towel on their backs, or in some other way.

At only ten cents an hour three hundred and fifty million hours amount to thirty-five million dollars.

If women would cut their hair off they would save that amount every two weeks. Figures do not lie. You can wash a baby in the time it takes to wash your hair.

In addition, women would look better, they would show the shape of the head, and thus gradually get BETTER heads; they would take a long step in the direction of common sense.

Women let their hair grow in the old days so that they could cover the baby's head with it and protect the baby from rain and cold. A primitive woman's hair was pretty well soaked with grease, pretty thick and solid, and it made a good cover for the baby's head. But it isn't needed for that now.

WOMEN, PLEASE CUT IT OFF.
